Police appeal to our readers for help in tracing these men

These people are wanted in connection with crimes in and around our borough and the police want Waltham Forest News readers' help in tracing them.

Each offence was committed in and around Waltham Forest and the men are believed to live locally. Officers are appealing for anyone who recognises them to come forward with information so they can be identified and found.

Detective Chief Inspector, Mandy Beacher, said: "We have asked Waltham Forest News to help us to locate these individuals as we would like to speak to them in connection with a variety of offences.

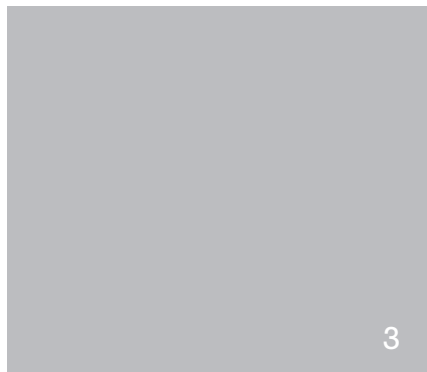

"It is unusual for us to publish photographs of people we would like to talk to, but we want to use everything at our disposal to catch the people that we think are responsible for criminal activities in the borough.

In my opinion

Jaki Wilson
Waltham Forest resident

There's no harm in throwing litter on the ground, because picking it up keeps someone in a job. We've probably all heard someone make that argument, but there's a flaw in that logic.

Waltham Forest Council has to spend between £2.5 – £3.5million each year on picking up people's litter and scraping their chewing gum off the pavement – not to mention what's spent on fly-tipping.

That corresponds to £38 extra being spent by every household in the borough on Council Tax, money completely wasted – literally thrown in the bin.

Think of all the things you'd like Waltham Forest Council to do, or do better. That money could be spent on reducing crime and gangs in our community. It could provide activities for our young people and older residents.

How about free English classes? Or perhaps we could have a new park or two, or a summer concert for everyone to enjoy.

The possibilities are endless.

Instead, here we are, wasting it all, and it's so easily avoidable.

It takes almost no effort to toss rubbish and chewing gum in a bin, or take it home if you can't find one.

From a lack of pride in our borough should flow a sense of shame – shame that by throwing down that chicken 'n' chips box you've made your local street a worse place; shame that a child will come to harm because the Council will have to spend money picking up that cigarette butt you've just dropped, instead of hiring more social workers.

That's why I'm very glad that the Council has hired more enforcement officers and is prosecuting those who have no shame, no respect, and no pride.

It's a message that extends to fly-tippers, too. And this is one area where I think the Council must get a lot tougher.

I'm happy to see my Council Tax being spent on enforcement – the more is invested there, the less will have to be spent on cleaning up. I look forward to the day, though, when it can be spent on something else entirely.

The Tottenham Hotspur Kickz project has been given further funding

£1M pot for youth activities

- Summer cash boost for youth services
- Young people in charge of divvying out funds

Martial arts, mobile youth clubs and music are just some of the things on offer this summer, after a panel of young people decided which youth groups scooped a share of a £1million pot.

Five teenagers assessed more than 75 applications, before deciding which organisations were offering the best services for young people.

The group were also given training on how to assess applications fairly and consistently.

Mohammed, from Walthamstow, chaired the panel.

"It was quite shocking being nominated to manage £1million," he said.

"But it makes sense. If you want something to be a success, you need to understand what it takes to be a success. That's why it was important 100 per cent of the decisions made for young people, are made by young people."

Almost £40,000 will be spent on a brand new youth bus like this one

Fact file

- The £1million comes from the Council's youth offer budget
- Every year, organisations across the borough are invited to bid for their own scheme but this is the first year the final decisions have been made solely by young people
- This summer 39 groups have received grants from £3000 up to £47,000 to fund their work
- To be successful, a bid must be based in Waltham Forest and open to anyone aged from five to 25
- A further £100,000 is still available for the winter programme
- The deadline for submissions for the winter programme is Wednesday 29 July 2009

Clampdown on illegal waste disposal

WE'RE WIPING OUT ENVIRO-CRIME

- Big council clampdown on trade waste in Hale End and Highams Park
- Efforts part of the Wiping Out Enviro Crime campaign

Council officers visited a number of businesses in Hale End and Highams Park this month (July) as part of a drive to check whether trade waste is being disposed of properly.

More than 60 businesses were visited, by council officers and councillors, including Council leader Cllr Chris Robbins, to encourage responsible waste disposal.

A total of 13 were ordered to produce Waste Transfer Notices proving they are disposing of their rubbish properly after failing to keep proper documentation of their waste disposal.

If they fail to do so within 14 days they could be fined up to £5,000 by magistrates or ordered to pay a £300 fixed penalty notice.

Businesses are obliged to keep receipts of all waste they have transferred for two years.

The clampdown is part of the Council's Wiping Out Enviro Crime campaign which aims to reduce fly tipping, littering, graffiti and dog fouling.

Cllr Robbins said: "Most businesses take their responsibilities seriously and make sure they have proper arrangements in place for rubbish disposal.

"But a minority do not and the waste ends up getting dumped on our streets.

The recession is no excuse for failing to be a responsible trader. We will take firm action if we find businesses flouting the law."

Also present during the operation were Deputy Council Leader, Cllr John Macklin, Cabinet Member for Environment, Cllr Bob Belam, and ward councillors Cllr Sheila Smith-Pryor, Cllr Nick Bason and Cllr Jane Morgan.

What a waste - Cllr Robbins (right) investigates.

Stow design guidelines

The Stow site guidelines are now available to all

While there hasn't been much to report regarding firm plans for Walthamstow Stadium, the Council has now put together a set of design guidelines for anyone wanting to develop the iconic site.

The document – called an urban design brief – outlines the kind of broad design and layout that the Council would consider acceptable, regardless of whether the land were to be used for leisure, housing, business or a mix of these uses.

Rather than plans that have been set in stone or a formal document on how the land should be used, this design brief is simply a set of guidelines to help prospective developers when looking at issues such as building layout, scale and public space.

While many might view affordable housing as the most realistic option, the Council would be willing to consider any viable option, including one to bring the track back into use if it was feasible.

Though such design briefs are often put together for large-scale projects, it's only planners and would-be developers who usually use them. However, as the Stow site is close to the hearts of so many residents the Council realises that local people might want to read through the brief for themselves, so it is now available upon request or from the Council website.

New Blackhorse road

The regeneration of Blackhorse Lane took another step forward on 9 July when a new through-road was officially opened. The road was named Green Ferry Way to tie-in with the fact that Ferry Lane was historically known as Green Ferry Lane and will make the area safer for pedestrians as well as help ease traffic around the Royal Standard Junction in the long-term. Blackhorse Lane is one of the borough's key regeneration areas and it is hoped that the area will provide around 2,000 new homes and 1,000 new jobs over the next 10 years.

Teenager's E11 ASBO

A 17-year-old has been banned from parts of Leytonstone and from congregating with more than two others.

xxxxxx xxxxxxxx of Cathall Road, Leytonstone is banned from Cann Hall Ward, the Cathall Estate and Leytonstone High Road until 16 June 2011.

The ASBO was issued on 16 June at Waltham Forest Magistrates' Court, who issued the order to prevent him from committing anti social behaviour in the area.

Magistrates heard xxxxxxxx was part of a group which was responsible for aggressive and intimidating behaviour in Leyton and Leytonstone.

- For more information on anti social behaviour contact the Council's Community Safety Section on 020 8496 3000.

Free swimming

Children 16 and under and the over-60s can make a splash without splashing the cash this summer thanks to a free swimming scheme.

Eligible residents can swim for free during public sessions at the borough's four swimming pools.

To take advantage of the scheme, children and young people must register for a free membership card. Over 60's can show their Freedom Pass. People who are already members of any GLL operated leisure centre do not need to apply for a separate free swim membership.

Once registered, Waltham Forest residents can swim once a day during public swimming sessions at any GLL managed pool.

Flowers relocated

A number of flower boxes in Walthamstow will be relocated after mindless vandals persistently wrecked them.

The boxes in Wood Street and Forest Road, Walthamstow were planted to brighten up the street scene but a small minority have repeatedly ripped up the plants.

Now in a bid to prevent further damage the council is relocating the boxes to an area where they will be appreciated more.

Resident Sylvia Mears said: "It's disgusting, the flowers are so beautiful everywhere and for someone to go out of their way to spoil them for other people is really disgusting behaviour."

• For more information about flowers and other planting in Waltham Forest contact the parks team on 020 8496 3000.

Music in Lloyd Park

Every Sunday in August musicians from around the world will perform free concerts in Lloyd Park, Walthamstow.

The shows will start with a performance from Tziganarama, an Eastern European folk music trio, on 2 August.

Tatati, a duo featuring music from South America with guitar, vocals and panpipes, will perform on 9 August.

Classical string Quartet The Halliom Quartet will appear on 23 August, and singer songwriter Carrie Leonard will perform songs from the 1940s to the present day on 30 August.

All performances start at 2pm, so why not take a picnic and enjoy the music in a beautiful setting?

Fun at former Arcade site

- Free event to launch opening of former Arcade site on July 25
- Family entertainment, plus the chance to discuss what could take place throughout the year

There'll be fun for everyone on July 25

Fact file

1. As the economic downturn has affected immediate plans for the former Arcade site, the decision was made to open up the site for temporary public use.
2. The land has been cleared and levelled, and a hard, multi-purpose surface has been put down.
3. As of July 25 the Council will be discussing how this space could be used in the short-term. Current ideas include using the space for public performances, events, art projects or retail use.
4. A free event will be held on July 25 to celebrate the site being opened up and also to ask residents how they think the site could be used.
5. Any short-term use for the land will not affect plans for its long-term redevelopment.

We've got less than a week to go before the workmen move out and the former Arcade site is officially open to the public.

To celebrate the site's transformation from overgrown eyesore to shiny new community space a free event will take place at the junction of Hoe Street and Walthamstow High Street from 11am-3pm on Saturday July 25, offering a fantastic array of family entertainment as well as the chance to have your say on what could take place there.

"What we've gone for is a flexible surface that could

As well as a celebration it's an opportunity to talk about options for the site

be used to stage just about anything," said Leader of the Council, Cllr Chris Robbins.

"While residents will be glad to see the site tidied and opened up, what's even more exciting is the thought of what could take place there over the next 18 months or so. We could have specialist markets, sports events, theatrical performances or even a temporary ice rink in the winter.

"While the event is a celebration in itself, it's also an opportunity for residents to come and talk to us about the options available for the site – what they think of our ideas and what their own thoughts are."

Aside from discussing what uses the site could be put to, there'll also be a whole host of family activities to keep anyone with a sense of fun entertained before or after they do their weekly shop. Attractions will include children's entertainers, facepainters, a bouncy castle, a bungee run, a football competition, a climbing wall and plenty more besides.

Also in attendance will be local drama students strutting their stuff to keep the crowds entertained, including pupils from local performing arts workshop Estate of the Arts. Workshop organiser Melanie Pratt, said: "We're really looking forward to the day and it should be a lot of fun – both for the kids who are performing and for everyone who comes down. I think that making this space available for the local community is a great idea and should prove to be a real asset to the area."

London Youth Games final

- Teams from all 33 London Boroughs compete in the London Youth Games
- Hundreds of young people from the borough helped Team Waltham Forest finish in 15th place

More than 600 young people from Waltham Forest took part in the London Youth Games during June and July, which culminated in the finals weekend at Crystal Palace on Saturday 4 and Sunday 5 July.

Team Waltham Forest, made up of pupils from the borough's secondary schools, competed against teams from 32 other London boroughs in several sporting events.

After a weekend of hard-fought competition, the team finished in fifteenth place overall, with a total of 963 points - a fantastic achievement.

Some highlights for the team included silver medals for the girls' football team, silver in girls' judo, a bronze in the senior boys' diving and a silver and bronze for the girls' aquathlon.

Waltham Forest News spoke to Jack Morgan, who won a bronze medal in the senior boys' diving competition.

Jack said: "I have been taking part in the youth games for four years, and I really like competing as part of a team. Even if you don't do well in your individual event, you have the chance to share success as part of the team. Every member of the team is as important as anyone else."

He added: "I've really enjoyed competing in the youth games over the years and have made friends with people from other boroughs, who I've then met at national competitions.

"I'd definitely encourage anyone who likes sports to compete in the youth games, and I hope to be taking part again in the future."

Congratulations to everyone who took part in the competitions, and represented Waltham Forest so well.

Leyton company fined £4,000 for fly-tipping

WE'RE WIPING OUT FLY-TIPPING

A plumbing and bathroom supplier has been ordered to pay out £4,540 after it was found guilty of dumping rubbish on the streets.

XXXXXX XXXXXXXX XXXXXXXX XXXXXXXX, based in High Road, Leyton, was prosecuted after waste from its premises was found in Lindley Road, Leyton on October 9 last year.

The company was prosecuted on two counts of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 for failing a Duty of Care and failing to produce waste transfer notes.

The company was found guilty in its absence at Walthamstow Magistrates Court on June 25 and fined £4,000 and ordered to pay costs of £540.

Don't waste water

World Water Week starts on August 16 and residents are being urged to follow these handy hints to conserve the wet stuff.

Rinsing your mouth from a tumbler while brushing teeth instead of running the tap saves nine litres of water a minute.

Taking a five-minute shower rather than a bath, saves 400 litres of water a week.

Your lawn only needs water once a week and buying a water butt will help to collect rain water for use on your garden.

Install a water meter to save water and use water efficient washing machines and dishwashers.

Anti littering DVD launched

An anti littering DVD produced by a group of secondary school pupils has been launched as part of a drive to tackle grime in Waltham Forest

A number of young people were recruited by the Council to produce the DVD as part of the borough's Wiping Out Enviro Crime Campaign.

The young people have worked to write, film, edit and produce the DVD which will be shown in all schools in Waltham Forest and also be posted on social networking sites such as YouTube, Facebook and MySpace.

Composting your food scraps is easy

Don't waste the opportunity

- All that wasted food hits your pocket hard and harms the environment
- Compost or recycle your kitchen scraps to do your bit and go even greener

While we want the borough's avid gardeners recycling their off cuts we realise this might not be possible for everyone.

Still, regardless of whether you're green-fingered or even have a garden, there's something each of us can recycle, as Forest Recycling Project's Bojana Vojinovic explains:

"While the best thing for food is that it makes it to our plates, roughly a third of our purchases end up in the bin," she says. "This costs the average family £420 a year and adds up to 100kg of waste per family."

Shocking isn't it - good food going to waste, but transporting it and dumping it in a landfill also means bad news for the environment.

"Some food waste is inevitable, since eggshells, banana skins and teabags are never going to be on the menu," says Bojana. "However, by setting up your own compost pile or using the brown bin scheme, you can help your garden and also the planet."

Fly-tipping service praised by government

WE'RE WIPING OUT FLY-TIPPING

- Five month clampdown reduces fly-tipping and leads to prosecutions
- DEFRA laud "very effective" campaign

Efforts to reduce fly-tipping in Waltham Forest have been praised by the government.

Last September the council launched a high profile campaign warning fly tippers they faced a £50,000 fine or five years in prison if they were caught.

During the five month campaign there was a dramatic reduction in the amount of fly-tipping in Waltham Forest and three people have been prosecuted.

The campaign was amalgamated into the Wiping Out Enviro Crime campaign when it was launched in January. And earlier this month (July) the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA) confirmed the council had delivered a "very effective" fly-tipping enforcement service throughout 2008/09.

The campaign featured mobile CCTV vans and extra officers deployed to catch the fly tippers and people who dropped litter. Extra road sweepers and collections teams were also deployed to respond quickly to complaints about rubbish being dumped.

The council is also employing more enforcement officers to work during evenings and weekends.

Waltham Forest Council's Cabinet Member for Environment, Cllr Bob Belam, said: "It's nice that the government has recognised our hard work, the challenge now is to improve further."

Angel Lane bridge closure

From 10 August 2009 until summer 2010 it is necessary to close Angel Lane Bridge to vehicles.

We recognise that this closure may cause some inconvenience but it is essential work to deliver the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games and the lasting benefits for east London.

The length of platform 10a at Stratford Regional Station will be extended to allow for greater passenger capacity on trains travelling from central London. A freight loop will also be moved to avoid interfering with rail traffic.

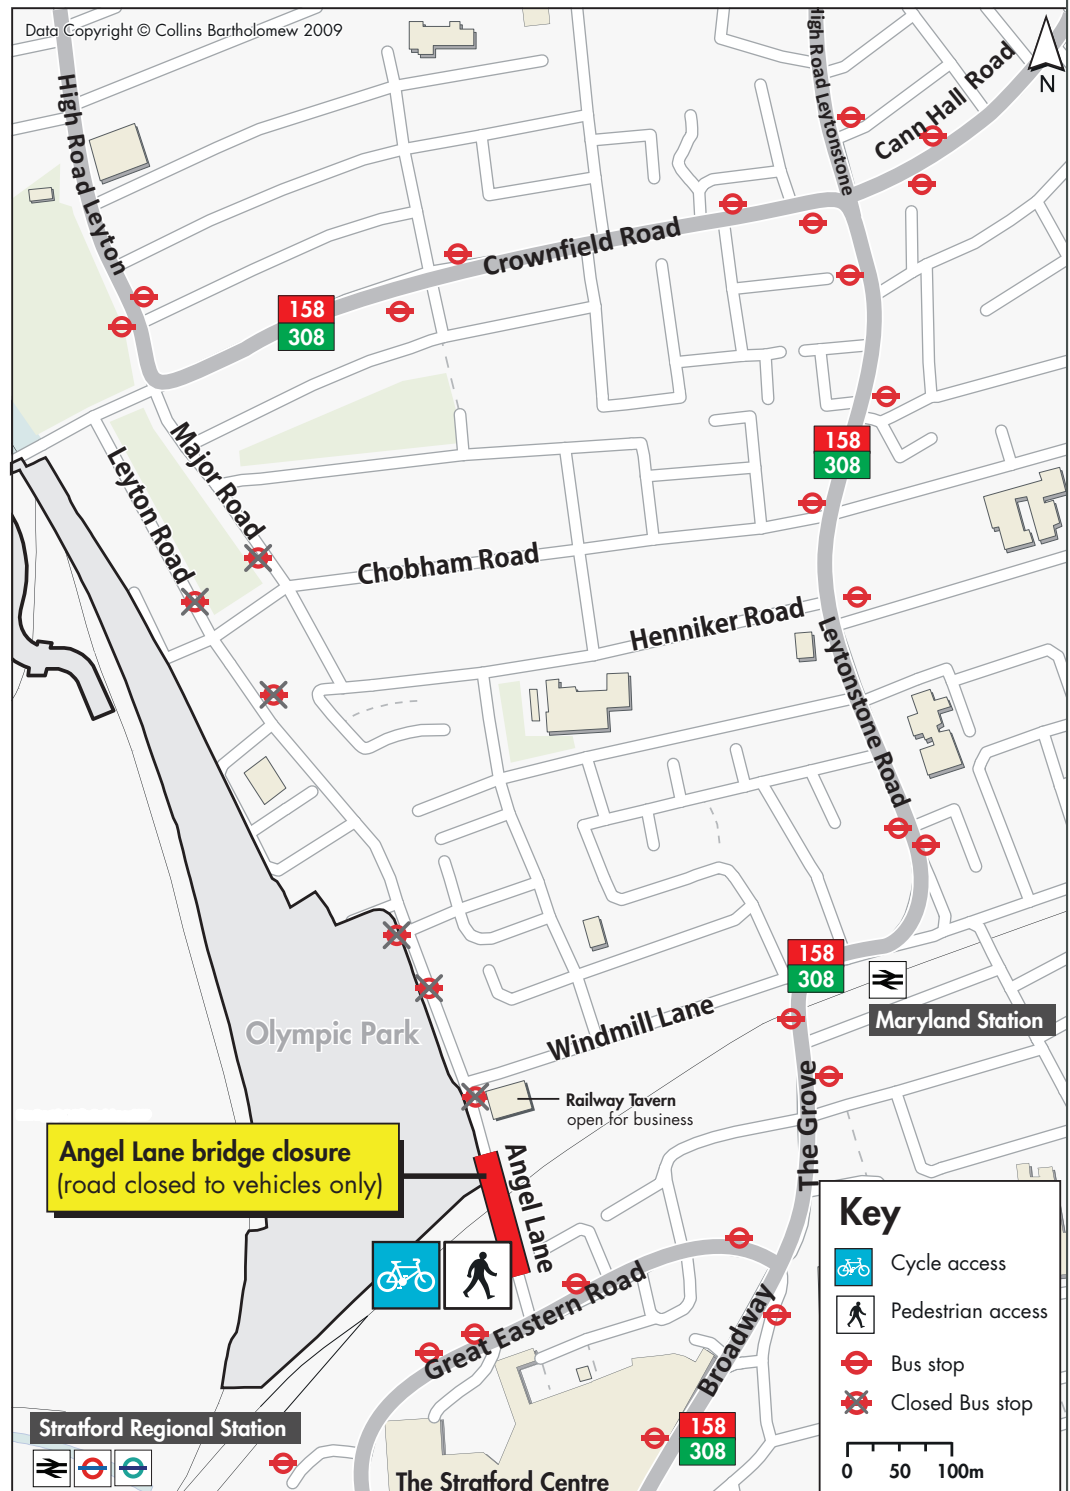

To be able to do the above improvements both for Games-time and for benefits after the Games, the current position of the Angel Lane Bridge needs to be changed.

The bridge will close for safety reasons as demolition, construction and utility diversion work needs to be done before removing the existing bridge during Easter 2010. A new bridge is currently being constructed alongside the existing bridge and will provide enhanced access for vehicles, pedestrians and cyclists from August 2010.

During the works Angel Lane Bridge will remain open for walkers and cyclists for as long as possible.

The alternate vehicle routes and bus diversions during the closure are highlighted on the map. The bus routes that will be affected are services 158 and 308.

If you would like further information about these changes please phone the Construction Hotline on 08000 722 110.

Car clubs travelling in the right direction

The new van is ideal for moving large items of furniture or for trips to the garden centre

One of Waltham Forest's Streetcars

Since the launch of a network of on-street bays earlier this year, cars clubs are proving to be a big hit in Waltham Forest – so much so that the Council is consulting on proposals to introduce further bays for the benefit of residents and businesses!

A total of 12 car club cars and one van can now be found across the borough, all of which are operated by Streetcar and which can be accessed by a single phone call or at the click of a mouse. Almost 600 residents and businesses are now making use of the fleet and the number of members is growing each month.

Providing all of the benefits of a modern, clean and reliable car without the hassle and hidden costs of car ownership, car clubs can result in fewer cars on the road and encourage more sustainable driving patterns.

Councillor Bob Belam, Cabinet Member for Environment, said: "The increasing level of car club use in Waltham Forest is very positive, and shows that car clubs can be a practical alternative to car ownership for some. The Council is now working to deliver a number of additional bays to meet growing demand."

Public consultation is currently ongoing on the introduction of car clubs at the locations shown in green on the attached plan. Full details of the consultation are available at www.walthamforest.gov.uk/car-clubs.

Our Community

South Chingford and Highams Park

In brief

Carefree Kids

A project providing play therapy for vulnerable, troubled or disruptive children has benefited from a community council grant.

Carefree Kids recruits and trains local people to work with the youngsters and provides a mobile bus to give the children and volunteers space to play when no room is available in school.

The group keeps costs down by using volunteers but this also helps local people receive training free of charge and learn new skills themselves. Carefree Kids also provides a free support and counselling service for any parent or carer needing help with their child.

• For more information call 0208 555 5248

Howzat for local cricketers

The London Cricket School has been set up to give local secondary school pupils who love cricket the chance to play the game and get excellent coaching for free.

The school is supported by the local Community Council, which has seen a new bowling machine arrive in the nets.

"The kids love it," says Naseem Saleemi. "We're about to start our summer activities, which will be busy, and we've already coached 60 young cricketers. There's a lack of facilities locally and a lack of organised cricket in schools. That's where we come in."

Brazilian parent and toddler playgroup

Curumim is a parent and toddlers group for Portuguese speaking parents and their children up to five years old.

The group is run on a voluntary basis by Brazilian mums in order to promote language and culture through play, crafts, games, songs and stories.

It costs just £2 per child, plus £1 for each sibling. The group meets on the second and fourth Saturdays of the month between 10am-12am at St Anne's Church Centre, 200 Larkshall Road, Chingford.

The Friends of Ainslie and Larks Woods prepare for action

Ainslie Wood nature trail

- Community Council grant helps friends relaunch popular nature trail
- New bird and bat boxes; planting of wild flowers and new signs at the wood entrances are in place

Nestling at the foot of a gentle slope just a few hundred metres from the busy Highams Park railway station, Ainslie Wood provides nature lovers with a welcome break from the hustle and bustle of nearby streets.

It also provides cover, and a home, for an amazing array of wild flowers, butterflies, birds and animals. Field Roses, Broad-leaved Willowherb and Black Bryony share their home with the ubiquitous grey squirrels and foxes, and if you're lucky, you may catch a glimpse of the odd toad, common newt, Pipistrelle bat or even a buzzard.

The friends of Ainslie and Larks Woods group was set up in 2002 to care for the woods.

"We are dedicated to maintaining and improving the woods for wildlife and for people to enjoy," says Chairperson, Ian Woodward. "We'd like to thank the South Chingford and Highams Park Community Council for their continued support of our activities including the setting up of nature trails in both woods".

The Friends of Ainslie and Larks Woods also produce nature trail booklets; the new edition has just been printed, to make it easier to get the most from a walk through the woods. These booklets describe the flora and fauna you will find in Ainslie and Larks Woods and are available at local libraries.

Blackhorse Lane Newsletter

July 2009

Historic local name revived as Green Ferry Way opens

On Thursday 9 July Green Ferry Way was officially opened by Cllr Anna Mbachu, the Mayor of Waltham Forest. Green Ferry Way provides the first phase of a new access road that will eventually connect Blackhorse Lane and Forest Road, avoiding the Royal Standard Junction.

The name has historic local roots as until the mid eighteenth century the Green Ferry operated from what is now the Ferry Boat Inn. Ferry Lane was formerly known as Green Ferry Lane and was an important crossing point in the Lea Valley.

Nowadays, Ferry Lane is a key gateway into Waltham Forest and the opening of Green Ferry Way marks the first step towards the transformation of the area.

The opening of Green Ferry Way provides the first step in the road safety and traffic management scheme, providing safe access to and from the commuter car park and the industrial units at Forest Works. This is the first phase in a comprehensive traffic management scheme for the Blackhorse Lane area which is designed to make this stretch of Forest Road safer and more convenient for both vehicles and pedestrians.

The next step is to link Green Ferry Way with Blackhorse Lane, which will reduce the traffic flow through the Royal Standard Junction, making it easier for people to access the station. The Council held a public consultation in September 2008 and is continuing to undertake a detailed option appraisal in consultation with affected landowners.

Cllr Terry Wheeler, Cabinet Member for Enterprise and Investment said; "The opening of Green Ferry Way marks an important milestone in the regeneration of the Blackhorse Lane area and will make an important contribution to road safety on this busy section of Forest Road. I will be working with the regeneration team to bring forward further phases as the Station Hub site comes forward for development."

Willowfield School update

In February we reported on plans to move Willowfield School to the old goods yard between Blackhorse Road Station, Hawarden Road and the Douglas Eyre Sports Centre, as part of the Council's £300million Building Schools for the Future programme. Feedback received from the local community and key stakeholders during the public consultation was very positive.

However, concerns were raised regarding transport and access to the school, including the impact on surrounding roads. The Council will investigate these issues, and a transport assessment will be undertaken. A School Travel Plan will also be developed which will seek to limit the number of people travelling to the site by car and encourage students and staff to cycle or walk.

Eve Wilson, Head of Willowfield School said, "I am pleased that local residents are as supportive of the plans as everyone at the school is. We are looking forward to designing a new school that will be at the heart of the community, providing state of the art facilities for both students and local people."

What happens next?

- Negotiations to acquire the site are continuing and real progress has been made

- A detailed specification of the design will be produced in consultation with the school, carefully considering consultation responses from residents and stakeholders

- An exhibition presenting proposals will take place prior to the submission of the planning application

- It is expected that a planning application will be submitted in spring 2010

Full details of the planning brief can be viewed at www.walthamforest.gov.uk/willowfield-school-consult

Better Neighbourhoods Update

Tony Banach, Area Manager for Higham Hill provides his regular update on events and issues in the area. Tony can be contacted by emailing tony.banach@walthamforest.gov.uk

As part of the programme of activities for this year, the Better Neighbourhoods Initiative is holding focus groups every three months for residents to discuss their concerns and share ideas about how to improve the area. At a meeting in June the group discussed plans to deal with fly-tipping, particularly at recycling points and along Folly Lane as part of the Council's Wiping Out Environmental crime campaign.

Residents also discussed ideas for funding from Walthamstow West

Community Council, which has a budget of £10,000 to fund local projects in Higham Hill. If you have an idea on how the money should be spent in Higham Hill talk to any of your local councillors or visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/community-councils

The next focus group will be held in September. If you would like to attend please contact Tony Banach on tony.banach@walthamforest.gov.uk

Teachers are being encouraged to get creative

Teachers taught new tricks

- School praised for groundbreaking staff development scheme
- Teachers encouraged to diversify and take on new subjects

Learning isn't just for pupils at Walthamstow School for Girls, where teachers are being encouraged to take on new challenges.

In an innovative move to develop staff, head teacher Rachel Macfarlane is actively pushing teachers into new subjects. And

How can we offer our students the very best opportunities, if our teachers are not offered them as well?

Walthamstow School for Girls is also looking at ways they can use their expertise in other schools.

In fact, so effective is the initiative, Ofsted classed the school as 'Outstanding' in May, both for its curriculum work and staff development.

"We're a Lead Support School," explains Rachel, "which means we support other schools' improvement, but to do that we must be leading the way ourselves.

"How can we offer our students the very best opportunities, if our teachers are not offered them as well?

That's why it's so important to invest in staff development."

So how does Rachel make sure staff don't leave once they have the training under their belt?

"Training is all about preparing for the future," she says.

"But my team knows that I will always encourage them to look at new ways of teaching, new subjects to teach, and whenever possible, new places to teach.

"That level of trust and support means the whole school buzzes with enthusiasm, and that's something not many people want to leave behind."

In brief

New religious education syllabus

The new syllabus for teaching religious education in secondary schools across the borough has been launched.

Waltham Forest Standing Advisory Council on Religious Education (SACRE) – a group made up of teachers, governors, councillors and faith leaders – has developed the new guidelines, working with VT Education and Skills.

Because of the make-up of SACRE, it is hoped teachers will approach religious subjects with more confidence, knowing that the guidelines have been agreed and approved by members of the local faith community.

Saturday school opens for all

After a successful first year working with local families, Chingford Foundation School is now planning to extend its Saturday School offer to the whole borough.

From September 2009, residents of any age and from any corner of Waltham Forest are invited to sign up to one of the many courses on offer.

Ranging from IT to oil painting, some courses offer a variety of accreditations while others are available just for the fun.

Arts week at Gwyn Jones

Pupils at Leytonstone's Gwyn Jones Primary School showed off their artistic flair recently when they took part in an arts week. Students bid a fond farewell to subjects like science and maths to focus on their creative skills, making bunting for their summer fair, picture frames and screen prints.

Head teacher Chris Botts said it wasn't such a far cry from the syllabus. "We use Arts week as an opportunity to really make learning exciting. Yes, pupils are painting flags for decoration, but at the same time they're learning about the individual countries. It's all about creating the most exciting atmosphere we can."

Centenary of flight

A display to celebrate the 100th year of flight in Britain has gone on show at Vestry House Museum in Walthamstow.

The exhibition commemorates the first officially recorded flight by a British Aviator in an aircraft of all-British construction.

Edwin Alliot Verdon-Roe's flight, described by his assistant as; "Not much of a flight, just a hop with a minor crash, but it was a beginning," took place on Walthamstow Marshes on 13 July 1909.

The display, created by Walthamstow Historical Society will be on display until the end of July.
